Fees and charges - price increases greater than 5 per cent

Over recent years, the increase in housing coupled with a steady rise in the amount of waste produced has imposed increasing demands on the service. This has been evident in customer demand for the bulky waste collection service and the provision of wheeled bins

It has been a number of years since these service areas have been reviewed and there is an opportunity to revise the service offer and the charges applied. The council has undertaken a transformation review of customer processes across the Waste Service, which has included bulky waste collections and the delivery of new and replacement wheeled bins. As part of this review, both services are due for a service charge review as part of the adoption of revised fees and charges for 2022/23.

Bulky Waste - The bulky waste service is provided to support the removal of household waste that does not fit in the wheeled bin provided. The collection service for household items is statutory but the service charges are discretionary. A discount is available for service users in receipt of council tax reduction (one collection per year). There are around 2,000 bulky collections on average per year, with a total of about 8,000 items. On average, the majority of collections are under five items, although we do receive collection requests involving more. The service is operated from the West Suffolk Operational Hub.

The service charge is considered 'cheap' compared to other options available to residents. This can disincentive residents to look for alternative options. The service is convenient as it removes the personal need to transport the items to the Household Waste Recycling Centres (HWRCs) or charitable organisations. Operational capacity is fixed (vehicle and 2-person crew), with a weekly collection schedule based on district-wide postcodes. As demand for the service increases, other waste and street scene services such as bin delivery and street cleansing are impacted as staff are diverted onto the bulky waste collection service. Demand is inelastic. Therefore, charging more will not necessarily increase overall income as it may reduce demand. This will be subject to the amount charged. The statutory service operates at a deficit.

Other options to residents include: a) Retailers offer take back schemes for old appliances, household goods on delivery of the replacement item. The arrangements differ subject to the item and retailer. This may not always be the cheapest option, but it is the most convenient because the removal typically occurs at the same time as the delivery / installation of the replacement item. b) The HWRCs enable residents to dispose of household items free of charge, albeit transport to the sites is the responsibility of the resident. This option also enables items to be donated for reuse. c) Other waste operators and dealers in second-hand furniture/bric-a-brac offer house clearances and waste removal services for a charge. d) Charitable organisations are willing to accept reusable goods that they can pass on and residents can sell goods on social media websites or donate to family members and friends.

Refuse Collection - The council has around £4,000,000 worth of bins in place across the district. This is a valuable resource that, if it is to operate efficiently, requires careful management by the council and residents. The replacement of missing, stolen or damaged bins is a drain on resources. The council is spending an increasing amount each year purchasing and delivering wheeled bins to domestic households in the district. Whilst for a number of years the council has charged housing developers for the provision of bins to newly constructed houses, the number of replacement bins supplied by the council is significant. These costs are becoming increasingly difficult to sustain, especially in the current financial climate. Due to the international shortage of the plastic feedstock used in bin manufacturing, there has been an increase in the unit cost of bins (from around £18 per bin to £21) and an increase in the lead time for delivery – up to 14 weeks.

Over the three-year period from 2017 to 2019, 15,923 bins were supplied costing over £300,000:

obj102 were to replace broken or damaged bins – the largest proportion.

o3,479 were to replace missing bins.

o4,073 were for new properties, lost in the back of the refuse freighter, bin exchanges, new traders and for new subscribers to the Garden Waste Collection Scheme.

Many Council charge for replacement bins in certain circumstances, currently it is just West Suffolk and Ipswich in Suffolk that dont charge. Councils report seeing a marked reduction in the number of bins they have subsequently had to order following the introduction of charging. For noting, the council is able in law to charge for the provision of wheeled bins and direct what can be put in the bin. Residents are also required to use the wheeled bins provided and cannot opt out, unless their household is excluded from the requirement.

There are a number of risks that the service will need to manage and work through with the proposal, these include:

•One of the main issues will involve 'bin rustling'. Residents understandably get very angry if their bin goes missing and they are expected to pay for its replacement. They will often suspect a neighbour who might have stolen a bin to avoid paying for a replacement themselves. This can have a cascading effect in some neighbourhoods.

•Bins emptied at communal collection points can be problematic where residents may select the bin in best condition at the end of the day and where bins are only loosely 'tied' to specific properties.

•Eor noting, mandatory numbering of bins by residents would help prevent this but it wouldn't completely avoid it.

It is proposed that a new charge is introduced to residents for the replacement of wheeled bins (black and blue bins). The charge is proposed to be £30 per bin from 1 April 2022 in circumstances where the bin is lost, stolen or damaged.

There will be no direct charge to residents in the following circumstances:

i.It is a new property and the developer has already purchased the bins. This charge is in place currently.

ii.Where the crew report that the bin fell into the back of the refuse freighter or the bin was damaged during emptying e.g. the lid was caught and damaged.

Due to the increase in the unit cost of bins, it is proposed to increase the charge to developers from £42 to £60 for a black and blue bin
